Design & Build

Description:

We were involved in the design and construction of an out-of-town shopping and leisure complex located on the banks of the River Derwent in Rowsley.

The project combined both new-build and restoration work to the former Paxton Station building, a Grade II listed building which has been sympathetically converted into a delicatessens and ice cream parlour.

The complex comprises factory shopping outlets totalling over 30,000 sq.ft., restaurants, design studios for local crafts people and ample parking for cars and coaches. It also includes a Wind in the Willows visitor attraction, offering activities for both adults and children.
