

Training and Development Policy

Updated May 2010

Training and development activity is recognised as integral to the continued success and progression of Hulme Upright.

The Practice invests in training and development not only financially but also in terms of time and physical resources in order to maintain high standards of knowledge, skill and expertise at all levels within the organisation.

The training and development needs of Directors, Staff and the Practice as a whole are regularly reviewed both informally and formally through the annual development appraisal process. Support is provided through individual training plans; a comprehensive programme of CPD initiatives, payment of professional subscriptions and training programme fees and mentoring initiatives.

The Practice's commitment to training and development was reflected in its accreditation as Investors in People in September 1998, a recognition which has been reconfirmed in 2000, 2003, 2006 and 2009.

David Morrey
Managing Director
For and on behalf of Hulme Upright

Lee Grady
Personnel Director
For and on behalf of Hulme Upright